Industry Leading Jeep Parts and Accessories Brand Partners with Acrylic Tank Manufacturing to Reveal Custom-Built Aquarium at Company's Suwanee, Ga. Office

Suwanee, Ga. (September 28, 2015) – Omix-ADA®, a leading manufacturer of high quality Jeep®, truck and off-road parts and accessories today announced that it has teamed up with world-renowned Acrylic Tank Manufacturing (ATM) to create a custom-built aquarium at its new corporate headquarters, which will be featured on Animal Planet's hit television series Tanked, beginning October 2 at 10 p.m. ET.

Led by brothers-in-law Wayde King and Brett Raymer, Tanked follows the operations of Las Vegas-based Acrylic Tank Manufacturing, the world's largest manufacturer of customized aquarium installations. Since ATM's humble beginnings as a family business more than 15 years ago, King and Raymer have made it their mission to travel the globe and transform fellow fish enthusiasts' dreams into reality by creating custom one-off tanks for celebrities, restaurants, casinos, museums and corporate offices of Fortune 500 companies. Today ATM is known throughout the world for creating some of the most outrageous, unique and "larger-than-life" tanks in existence.

"It was an incredible experience working with ATM to create this special one-of-a-kind tank that's housed right here at Omix-ADA," said Henk Van Dongen, Omix-ADA's Director of Marketing. "Following months of hard work is a manmade work of art filled with the beauty of Mother Nature that everyone who visits Omix-ADA can admire for years to come. It's truly the capstone of our new facility."

Wayde King and Brett Raymer of Las Vegas-based Acrylic Tank Manufacturing teamed up with Jeep parts and accessories leader Omix-ADA to design and build a one-of-a-kind tank as a focal point in the brand's historic Jeep Collection.
